

German Science Day for PhD and Postdoctoral Candidates in May 28/2016

Registration for the event is mandatory.

On 28th May 2016, the member organisations of the DWZ will organize for the fifth time, the German Science Day offering a great variety of lectures, counselling sessions and panel discussions at the premises of the DWZ in Zamalek.

The DWZ will invite several German experts and scientists, who will give lectures on the newest research and development made in Germany. The event will start with a panel session discussing all important questions on preparing and doing research in Germany. Formal requirements, structured programmes and graduate colleges and many practical tips will be provided by the representatives of university international offices and graduate schools.

Besides the lectures, participants will be invited to individual counselling sessions with representatives of TU Berlin, TU München, FU Berlin and Marburg University, where the opportunity of continuing their research in Germany will be explored.
